

Lesson 17 My Fair Share (Seals and Crafts)

Lost, lost as a child's first thought.
I must have arms to hold me.
Lost without love and care.
I must have my fair share.

There, there is a changing word.
But here is an honored promise.
Justice if you're still there.
I will have my fair share.

Justice is a lady. Lay me down with justice in a long white gown.
With a breath of love, we can share.
Share, sleep with me if you dare.
Celebrate my fair share.

There, there is a changing word.
There is an honored promise.
Justice if you're still here.
I will have my fair share.
