1.	May	“Busking Life 2015” (一班人去賣藝 2015) is a series with seven 30-minute episodes. This programme has interviewed a number of professional and amateur buskers locally and in Eastern Europe, who share their views and how they feel about busking, hence highlighting the differences between the local and overseas busking cultures. Also, we followed a bunch of young people in Hong Kong yearning for an alternative way to travel. They attempt to cover their travel expenses by busking at various destinations. In a group they travel to four cities in Eastern Europe (Budapest in Hungary, Vienna in Austria, Prague in Czechoslovakia and Krakow in Poland). They are all looking forward to experience the street performance culture, and to understand the pains and joys of buskers in different places. The last two episodes will explore the busking culture, policy and development here in Hong Kong.
2.	May	“Primary School Quiz 2015” (小學校際通識大賽 2015) is a series with nine one-hour episodes. The new programme, which aims at grooming all-rounded students, will test the capability of the students through different sessions. They include mandatory questions on academic subjects, action challenges testing the students’ concentration and cooperation, video puzzles that only the attentive ones can pass, and competitive quiz for the quick shooters.
3.	May	The eight 30-minute episodes “IPCC Files 2015” (監警有道) are based on real complaint cases against the Police, the themes include: Lost Property, Demonstrations, Property Ownership Disputes, Theft, Traffic, Assault and Domestic Violence. The stories are told from the perspective of IPCC and show how they carry out detailed and systematic investigations in a fair and just manner, thereby uncovering the truth during the vetting of Complaint against the Police’s (CAPO) investigation reports before deciding on the classifications for complaint cases. Through these stories, the programme reflects the IPCC’s statutory function and its role in the Police complaints system, and how it protects the interests of the complainants and complainees.

4.	May	“Ten Years After” (十年人事) is a documentary series about Now and the Past. It plans to revisit 8 cases that RTHK has filmed ten years ago. We intend to capture the changes and document some aspect of reality during the past ten years.
5.	May	“Hong Kong Stories” (香港故事 – 音樂 • 人間) is a series with ten 30-minute episodes. Music enriches one’s life. Though the characters portrayed in this programme are not renowned musicians, music has brought about changes to their lives and influenced people in a magical way.
6.	May	2 episodes of “La Traviata” (茶花女) with one at 90-minute long and the other 60-minute long. Richard Eyre's ever-popular production for The Royal Opera is set against the striking period designs by Bob Crowley to amplify the tensions and confrontations that make Violetta's predicament so tragic and her portrayal so real. A fine and tuneful score that includes such favourites as Violetta's questioning 'Ah fors'èlui', 'Pura siccome un angelo' as Germont père pleads for his daughter and 'Parigi, o cara', in which the lovers poignantly imagine a life that will never be theirs.
7.	May	It is no wonder that “Swan Lake” (天鵝湖) is one of the most loved of all classical ballets. It has that magical combination of Tchaikovsky’s music, a compelling story of tragic romance and choreography that allows the very best dancers to show just how amazing they can be. The programme is of 2 hours long.
8.	May	“Marco Polo: The China Mystery Revealed” (馬可孛羅 尋東之旅) is a series with three 30-minute episodes. Marco Polo is renowned for taking one of the most influential journeys in the history of Western Civilization. He claimed to have spent 17 of his 24 years in Asia in China, but did he really journey there? Award-winning photographer Mike Yamashita takes us back in time to the places described in Marco Polo’s book, “Description of the World”. Mike uses Polo’s book to see for himself how accurate he was and shed some light on the mystery. This beautiful film takes us closer to the truth, allowing the viewers to make up their own minds.
9.	June	Every one of us grows up with pop songs. With a mix of simple drama and documentary, “Those were the Songs 2015” (歲月如歌) is a series with eight 30-minute episodes that documented our songs, our emotions and our lives. There are songs faded away after momentary mania and become history. There are songs everlasting and become part of your memory. The melody, the rhythm, and the lyrics, just a little drop of these is well enough to revive your memories and evoke flashbacks. They maybe fragment of our lives, neighbourhoods, or society and pop songs carry our emotions and with thoughts attached.
